

Mic Remote RC600

Recording in the field usually means recording in real-time. You're documenting things as they happen, and you don't have the luxury of backing up and starting over. Often, your concentration, efficiency, and reaction time can make or break the interview. The new RC600 Mic Remote works with the PMD660, PMD671, or PMD570 to control critical functions and view recording status literally at your fingertips, without running back and forth between your subject and your equipment.

In addition to Record and Pause buttons, a Mark button makes later navigation and editing easy. Finally, a three-color LED keeps you informed about record status and peak levels so you can keep your attention where it belongs – at the microphone.
